9 UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

CRIMINAL CASE NO. CR08-00004

10 vs.

RESPONSE CONCERNING PERJURED
TESTIMONY; CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

11 MARY C. GARCIA et al.,

12
13 Defendants.
14

15 COMES NOW, Defendant MARY C. GARCIA, through her counsels of record, and 16 submits this response concerning perjured testimony in reply to the United States Memorandum
17 Concerning Testimony Contradicting Prior Sworn Testimony filed on June 24, 2008. All 18 counsels and co-defendants in the present case joins herein.

20 The Government's duty to disclose exculpatory or impeaching evidence derives from due
21 process guarantees to a fair and impartial trial. In Brady v. Maryland, the Supreme Court
22 announced the rule that "suppression by the prosecution of evidence favorable to an accused
23 upon request violates due process where the evidence is material to guilt or to punishment,
24 irrespective of the good faith or bad faith of the prosecution." 373 U.S. 83, 87, 83 S.Ct. 1194, 25 1196 (1963). "[T]he constitutional obligation is [not] measured by the moral culpability, or the 26 willfulness, of the prosecutor.... If the suppression of evidence results in constitutional error, it is

1 because of the character of the evidence, not the character of the prosecutor.” U.S. v. Agurs, 427
2 U.S. 97, 110, 96 S.Ct. 2392, 2400-2401 (1976).

3 To establish a Brady violation, it must be shown that material exculpatory or impeaching
4 evidence was suppressed by the government, either willfully or inadvertently, resulting in
5 prejudice. Morris v. Ylst, 447 F.3d 735, 741 (2006). Evidence is material if there is a
6 “reasonable probability that, had the evidence been disclosed to the defense, the result of the 7 proceeding would have been different.” Id. A “reasonable probability” exists if there is “a
8 probability sufficient to undermine confidence in the outcome.” Id. (citations omitted).

10 The defense submits that all known instances of past perjury, whether at the change of 11 plea proceeding or otherwise, are material impeaching evidence. Had the evidence of past 12 perjury been revealed, there absolutely would have been a reasonable probability that the result
13 of the cross-examination would have been different. The defense would have been prepared and 14 able to conduct a thorough and meaningful cross-examination. To the contrary, the defense
15 stumbled upon the past perjury of one witness during cross-examination. Despite knowing that 16 the witness either committed perjury at the change of plea proceeding or was committing perjury
17 during her trial testimony, the Government remained willfully silent. Had the defense never 18 asked the line of questions that exposed the perjury, the defense would have remained ignorant
19 while the Government sat idly by knowing its witness either committed perjury in the past or was 20 presently committing perjury. Because the defense had not been notified of the known perjury of 21 a Government witness, the cross-examination, impeachment and ultimately the fairness of that 22 portion of the trial were undermined.

1 The prosecution has an overriding duty to do justice:

2 The prosecuting attorney represents a sovereign whose obligation is to govern
3 impartially and whose interest in a particular case is not necessarily to win, but to 4 do justice. It is the sworn duty of the prosecutor to assure that the defendant has a fair and impartial trial.

5 Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands v. Bowie, 243 F.3d 1109, 1116 (9th Cir. 2001).

6 Further, a prosecutor's responsibility and duty to correct what he/she knows to be false
7 and elicit the truth requires the prosecutor to act when put on notice of the real possibility of false
8 testimony. Bowie, 243 F.3d at 1117-1118. The duty to act is not "discharged by attempting to 9 finesse the problem by pressing ahead without a diligent and a good faith attempt to resolve it.
10 Id. Importantly, a prosecutor "cannot avoid this obligation by refusing to search for the truth and 11 remaining willfully ignorant of the facts." Id.

13 In the present case, the Government did not disclose the anticipated testimony of its 14 witness regarding past or present perjury. Instead, the Government permitted the witness to 15 testify, perhaps hoping that her past perjury would not be uncovered. An inference can be
16 drawn, however, that by asking whether the witness had paid Defendant Lee, the Government
17 knowingly set up the defense to impeach the witness with the stipulated facts contained in the 18 witness' plea agreement. All along, the Government was aware that the witness would admit to 19 lying at the change of plea proceeding. By failing to disclose the witness' past perjury and 20 allowing its surprise revelation during cross-examination, the government's design afforded the 21 defense an inadequate opportunity to prepare and to fully and meaningfully confront the witness.
22

23 By virtue of its authority and its ultimate duty to do justice, the Government is held to a
24 higher standard than defense counsels. The defense submits that the Government's conduct in 25 failing to disclose all known instances of past or future perjury violates not only constitutional
26 guarantees of due process and a fair trial, but also the paramount duty to do justice.
27

1 Government suppression of material exculpatory or impeaching evidence is intolerable
2 whether at trial or on appeal. On appeal, a convicted defendant is entitled to a new trial if he can
3 establish that the Government intentionally or inadvertently failed to correct materially false
4 testimony relevant to the credibility of a key Government witness at the trial, including evidence
5 concerning 'any understanding or agreement as to a future prosecution' between the witness and 6 the Government. Giglio v. United States, 405 U.S. 150, 92 S.Ct. 763 (1972); Napue v. Illinois,
7 360 U.S. 264, 79 S.Ct. 1173 (1964).

9 Lastly, the Government entitled its submission as a "Memorandum Concerning 10 Testimony Contradicting Prior Sworn Testimony." To characterize the perjured testimony of 11 Government witnesses as "contradicting prior sworn testimony" is misleading and legal 12 understatement. As aptly noted in Bowie:

14 A lie is a lie, no matter what its subject, and, if it is in any way relevant to the 15 case, the district attorney has the responsibility and duty to correct what he knows
16 to be false and elicit the truth.

16 Bowie, 243 F.3d at 1115.

17 We submit that disclosure of known perjured testimony to the court and to the defense is 18 an inextricable part of the prosecution's responsibility and duty to correct known falsehoods and 19 elicit the truth.

21 Respectfully Submitted: June 24, 2008.
